INTRODUCTION

Chinese Civilization at Fudan University (abbr. ICSCC) is an international civilization. Supported by Fudan's strength in the humanities, ICSCC strives to promote Chinese studies as well as cross-cultural exchange and dialogue amongst the global academic community. ICSCC will provide visiting research opportunities to outstanding scholars from overseas. Through on-campus lectures, small-scale workshops, and publishing opportunities, it will constitute a comprehensive and multi-level system of exchange between visiting and local scholars. This not only provides non-Chinese scholars with opportunities for "on-the-spot" research, but also fosters greater international commitment to research on Chinese civilization.

By inviting the international academic community into China, ICSCC hopes to convey the breadth of Chinese global stage.

The International Center for Studies of civilization and its domestic scholarship to the world, creating an innovative method of Sino-foreign academic platform for research on Chinese exchange. Situated on Fudan's campus, ICSCC strives to establish itself as a stronghold for effective collaboration and dialogue amongst the global academic community, pioneering this effort through its visiting scholars program. Later, with the aim of further elevating studies on Chinese civilization, ICSCC will promote joint collaborative opportunities for advanced research abroad by establishing branch centers co-organized with overseas universities and research institutes of international standing. ICSCC endeavors to be a place where Chinese values and global perspectives come together. In order to increase the mutual understanding between scholars of China and scholars of other countries, it also strives to be one of the major outlets for Chinese scholarship on the Academic Lectures

ICSCC invites outstanding domestic and foreign scholars to give lectures on various topics such as academics and culture. Each year, the Center invites prestigious scholars from academic circles to give lectures on high-end academic topics. At the same time, the Center's visiting scholars also hold several lectures during their stay at Fudan.

ICSCC Summer School

Since 2013, ICSCC holds an international summer school of studies on Chinese culture and religions every August. The summer school invites overseas distinguished scholars to give courses and is open to young scholars. Over the years, there have been more than 200 young scholars from China and abroad who have participated in the program.

ICSCC Visiting Scholars Program

Overview

The International Center for Studies of Chinese Civilization (ICSCC) at Fudan University is pleased to announce the ICSCC Visiting Scholars Program. Officially established in March, 2012, the ICSCC is a platform for research in the advancement of new approaches to studies on Chinese civilization and cross-cultural exchange amongst the global academic community. Supported by Fudan's strength in the humanities, ICSCC strives to create a resident research community to engage in research projects concerning Chinese civilization. Through on-campus lectures, small-scale workshops, and publishing opportunities, ICSCC will constitute a comprehensive and multilevel system of exchange between visiting and local scholars.

ICSCC's Visiting Scholars Program is for qualified young scholars from outside of China who are at the early or middle stages of their academic careers with a proposed focus on Chinese civilization. Successful applicants will receive support to pursue independent research while in residence at Fudan. They are expected to give a presentation on an individual research topic and lead one workshop in collaboration with Fudan and non-Fudan faculty members and scholars. Projects funded under the program are expected to result in publications in Chinese.

Guidelines for application

Eligibility

Applicants must be under 50 years of age.

Applicants should have received a doctoral degree and hold a faculty position at a recognized university or be a regular member of an established research institution outside of China.

Applicants should conduct research relevant to Chinese civilization, preferably traditional Chinese civilization.

Budget

Each year, the ICSCC invites up to 12 visiting scholars from abroad to conduct research at Fudan University for the duration of the residence from 1 to 6 months

The center shall provide visiting scholars with one-time roundtrip traveling expenses (standard economy-class airline price), as well as standard and reasonable living stipends and accommodation for the duration of the visit.

The center shall provide an on-campus research office with computer printing facilities, and access to books and reference materials in Fudan libraries.

Assignments

Local liaison. Visiting scholars should collaborate with a local scholar. If the local scholar is from outside of Fudan, the Center shall arrange a Fudan scholar in a similar field of study to act as liaison.

Workshop. Visiting scholars are encouraged to lead one workshop in collaboration with Fudan and non-Fudan faculty members and scholars. The workshop should be no longer than one week's duration. Besides the organizers, each workshop opens a maximum of 20 places for scholars engaged in related fields of research. Travel expenses and hotels for workshop participants from outside Shanghai will be covered by ICSCC. Workshop papers may be selected by ICSCC for translation and publication.

Application Procedures

The center issues a call for proposals and accepts applications. After gathering application materials, the Executive Board begins preliminary selection, distributing applications to relevant experts for review, requiring interviews when necessary. Final acceptance decisions are made by the Academic Board based on applicants' circumstances and review results.

Applications should consist of the following:

1) Application cover page: project title and full contact information for applicant, including name, title, contact details (email, telephone, postal mailing address);

- 2) Curriculum vitae: including education background and research experience, as well as published academic achievements;
- 3) Passport: scanned copy or detailed passport info;
- 4) Description of research proposal (minimum 3000 characters if in Chinese, or 5 pages, single spaced, if in English);
- 5) Two recommendation letters written by experts in relevant fields of study.

The above application materials may be written in Chinese or English.

Timelines

The ICSCC Visiting Scholars Program is a long-term program that runs throughout the academic year. We receive applications all year round and will process the applications by April 30 and October 31.

Applications should be sent by email to Ms. QIAN Yu , the Program Officer at ICSCC Fudan. Questions about the program or the application procedures may also be directed to her.
